

Igniting Learning Journeys
啟育學習旅程

Dear Friend of CDC,

We hope everyone is safe and sound at this current time. Whilst COVID-19 affects us all globally, at the CDC, we have been working hard so that your child can continue to learn as we adapt and develop our services to suit the current circumstances. In addition, we've been able to divert our attention to closely reflect on and evaluate the parent survey responses from February this year. We present to you an analysis in the section Parent Survey Feedback 2020, in which we respond to your comments and suggestions to our programmes and services. Be sure to take a look at it!

Read on for some brand new 'SEN Tips', relevant to home learning, which is becoming increasingly important in the current climate. We've also listed a few events below in the 'Upcoming Events' section, and if you would like to enjoy some good wine and support the CDC at the same time, check out this exclusive offer on a range of wines from Castello del Vino.

SEN Tips

Happy Eating – How to Help Your Child Try New Foods?

Children often struggle to try new foods and their unique flavours and textures. Learn how to help your child gradually get used to these different foods!

Behaviours at Home: What's Going On?

Before we can decide on a game plan to rectify behaviours, we first need to work out why a child is behaving the way they are. Discover how we can keep track here!

Reading with Your Child

Many of us know that reading with children is important for their language development. But how can we maximise reading in the home environment? Click to find out some quick tips!
